Mr. Allen W. Dulles, Director
Central Intelligence Agency
Washington, D. C.

Dear Mr. Dulles:

As one of those who attended the dinner last Friday night at the Council on Foreign Relations, I want to thank you for the fine address which you delivered and for the leadership you are supplying in the Eisenhower administration in your present post. It is extremely heartening to those who know you that you have been willing to assume this responsibility.

Your talk inspired me to write a little piece for one of our local papers, a copy of which I am enclosing. I hope very much that you will proceed with the formulation of our objectives, about which you spoke.

Very sincerely yours,

Charles Zukoski, Jr.
